CLASS HISTORY OF 1950-'51

On August twenty-sixth, nineteen hundred thirty-nine, one hundred seventy six-year-olds left the protective shelter of their home life and started forth to obtain an education at the Black Mountain Elementary School. Nine years later eighty-two freshmen took up their duties at Black Mountain High School. It was under the able guidance of Miss Mary Wilson and Mr. Richard Seawright these green, but bold students managed to survive that eventful year.

As sophomores Mrs. W. H. McMurray and Mr. Eugene Byrd were our class councilors.

Our junior class had an enrollment of sixty-two members and was under the sponsorship of Mrs. Josephine McCoy and Mrs. Martha Perley. This year, after much hard work our banquet, planned around the theme of careers, was quite successful. It was a thrill to attend the prom under the direction of Mrs. Paul Trueblood, the senior class sponsor.

At the beginning of our senior year there were only forty-six members in our class, because many had dropped by the way side. Some had sacrificed education for the cause of matrimony, others for jobs, and still others for various reasons.

We were fortunate enough to have again as our sponsors, Mrs. Martha Perley and Mrs. Josephine McCoy. One of the highlights of the year was the social event of "The Sadie Hawkins Dance," Dogpatch carnival style. A play based on the life of Dogpatch residents was also given.

After twelve years we had reached the goal upon which our eyes had long been set. At last we were near the day to which we had all looked forward too, but it was with regret that we were leaving Black Mountain High School.

As we go forth into life we will always remember "the friendships formed here, and the knowledge gained here." We will appreciate the guidance and help of our councilors. There will always be fond memories of our good times, and thoughts of appreciation for the ones who have instilled within us a desire for character and knowledge.

CLASS PROPHECY

Vera Hodges is now the greatest artist in America. Of course, no one can understand her paintings. She says she produces her best masterpieces by dipping a cat in mud mixed with petroleum, turning around three times, and throwing the cat against the canvas! The result makes excellent modern day painting.

Reba Gouge was dishonorably discharged from the House of Representatives, due to the fact that she over emphasized her ability to vote more than once.

Sue Reed is now the personal, private, exclusive secretary of Ruth Bartlett, first lady president of the United States. Serving on President Ruth's cabinet are: Katherine Padgett, secretary of the Department of  $\frac{1}{2}$ c postage stamps; Thelma Brooks, secretary of the Department of Lost Chords, in the music section; and Joyce Silver, in charge of safety pins in the Children Department.

Bub Gaskins has been elected Governor of North Carolina, because his only opponent was Roy Hendron, the leader of the G.O.P.

Carol Simmons is now fixing radiators in the public schools of Buncombe County, particularly near Science rooms.

Bobby Glenn, before an enthralled throng is delivering a political speech today as he runs on the Wilkie platform.

Barbara Wade has just returned from a concert tour of Europe, where she appeared with the New York Symphony Orchestra, directed by Sherwood Mull.

Ruth Watkins, the champion lady wrestler, defeated ex-champion Pee Wee Little in a fifteen round bout last night in Madison Square Garden.

Hazel Burnette has found out that after twenty years, she doesn't have a complete football team and she is sometimes forced to play fullback.

Wilma Justus is busily engaged in planning and paying for the improvement of the highway between Black Mountain and Old Fort.

Carol Ledbetter, the old maid school teacher, is frequently seen after school. It seems that she still enjoys school life.

Cecil Nanney, professor at Harvard University, seems to be quite a clown in the physics laboratory. Was it he who created the fireworks last year, causing all his students to become patients for Harold Brown, M.D. on the campus?

Peggy H. Reese! OH! YES! She lives in that pretty house on 42nd Street.

Clyde Reese's school for models seems to be a very interesting place for Joyce Belcher and Lavina Hollifield. How's business, Clyde?

Helen Candler and Pearl High seem to be enjoying a quiet life.

Wade Rice was seen in a Patrol Car chasing Sara Rice, who was driving intoxicated. It seems that she was driving Jean Holt, Frieda White, Jack Hudson, and Robert White home from a O. M. and B. party.

Betty Allison, a missionary to China, today told the Geography Class of Chinese life.

Jeanette Harrison, proprietor of a restaurant in Chicago, gave a lecture last week on "Food Served to the Public."

Martha Garrison and Margaret Hollifield are the heads of the Census Bureau in Asheville.

Bernice Gosnell is operator of "BERNICE'S BEAUTY SHOPPE" in Akron, Ohio.

Mildred Gardner has become very wealthy from housekeeping.

Mary Hensley has just hung her sign reading, "Chiropractor." She'll keep everybody healthy, that is, if they will let her.

Robert Goodson is county agent in Buncombe County.

Ed Reese is a basketball coach for Notre Dame.

Bobby Ritchie is playing professional basketball for Globe Trotters.

David Atkins is the lawyer for the A and P Super Market in Lexington, N. C.

THE "B" CLUB

The "B" Club is composed of students who have earned an athletic letter by participating in one or more of the sports in our school.

Various projects have been undertaken this year which include buying football pants for the players and sponsoring a banquet at the end of the season in honor of the football players. Plans are now being made to buy more athletic equipment for future use.

In order to raise money for these projects, the club gave a dance in honor of the football boys, at which Barbara Justus was crowned queen. This group is also in charge of the concession booth at the basketball games.

The officers of the club for this year are: President, Wilma Justus; Vice-President, Roger White; Secretary, Barbara Wade; Treasurer, Barbara Justus. The Sponsors are Mr. Humphries and Mr. Byrd.
